Letters from Literati ~Lafcadio Hearn and Akahiko Shimaki~

Hiroshima University Library publishes www.hiroshima-u.ac.jp/library

Nowadays e-mails and SNS dominate our communication, while handwritten letters have become increasingly rare. We invite you to experience the heartfelt expressions of literary figures through words inscribed on a letter. This exhibit features letters from Lafcadio Hearn (Koizumi Yakumo) and Akahiko Shimaki, preserved in the Special Collections Room of the Central Library.

Letters from Lafcadio Hearn (Koizumi Yakumo) Addressed to Sentaro Nishida

Lafcadio Hearn (Koizumi Yakumo), best known for bringing Japanese literature to the west, beside his work such as Kwaidan -Stories and Studies of Strange Things, he came to Matsue in Shimane Prefecture in 1890 to serve as an English teacher. While, Sentaro Nishida is known as someone who supported Hearn's life in Matsue both publicly and privately. (In the currently airing NHK morning drama Bakebake, he is preformed by Ryō Yoshizawa.)

Their correspondence continued even after Hearn left Matsue, lasting until Nishida's death in 1897. The surviving letters reveal the deep respect and trust Hearn held for Nishida.

Our library preserves fifteen of these letters, donated by Nishida's second son, Keizō, who served as dean of the Faculty of Fisheries and Animal Sciences at our university. Digital images of the letters are available through our online archive. In addition, the Japan Search Gallery's exhibition "The Heart of Hearn: Letters to Sentaro Nishida" provides digital access to these letters alongside those held by the Shimane University Library and the Matsue City Central Library.

Letter from Akahiko Shimaki Addressed to Kisaku Obi

This letter was written by Akahiko Shimaki (1876-1926), a poet of the Araragi school, and sent to his colleague Kisaku Obi during their time as elementary school teachers in Nagano Prefecture.

The example shown above is dated New Year's Day of 1911 (Meiji 44). At the end of the letter, Shimaki includes two poems:

"Among the sparse pines of the winter trees in Chikuma-no, little birds and I have grown accustomed to living together."

"Sunset light filters through the sparse winter trees onto the reddish earth at their roots, revealing its color."

Our library holds sixty of his letters in the Special Collections Room, but their contents can also be viewed in the facsimile edition (Large Archives D: 911.16/Sh-37) and in the collected works.
