Journal Editors' Virtual Roundtable

Call for questions to journal editors!

Information

We will be conducting roundtable discussions on November 13, 2020, with editors of research journals around the world to gather their insights about effective academic writing for successful publication of your research. Part of this roundtable involves questions from faculty and graduate students in Hiroshima University. If you have a question you would like to ask to our invited journal editors, please fill out the following questionnaire for consideration. The roundtable will be recorded and the recorded video will be released later on.

Main points of the roundtables would be to:

- share expectations for successful academic writing
- discuss important issues in academic publication
- answer questions from HU faculty and students
