

Why International Student Move Internationally and What Does the Increase in International Student Mobility Mean for Higher Education in Europe and Asia

The sudden outbreak of COVID-19 has had a huge impact on international higher education. As the largest exporter of international students, many countries bore the brunt. The growth in international education as an economic sector has countries around the world developing strategies to attract international students, but why are students becoming more mobile in Europe and Asia? And what does increased student mobility mean for higher education stakeholders?
